Most humans rinse.

recycle, & repeat this basic life pattern of education, work, live pay check to pay check, burdened with debt until death. Parents teach it by example to each new generation, and although the idea of insurance or 72 hour kits is fantastic for smaller or personal emergencies or as safety nets for families. These preparedness measures will never suffice for LARGE scale disasters that can bankrupt insurance companies, or cripple nations, or even collapse currency.

When you make an Income You are expected to Pay taxes, Invest Pay Social Security, Buv Insurance (health, life, fire, earthquake, driving etc.) Have good credit, so you can use debt to leverage monthly payments for what you can't pay for today.

Use Welfare when you can't work. Buy groceries as needed to feed your family from stores that are filled with government subsidized crops. AND In an emergency have a

72 hour kit to flee with, have a couple flashlights and if all else fails rely on

FEMA AND do not forget ENTERTAINMENT!  About 5% of the population do additional preparedness steps. They use their knowledge and income (perhaps diverting entertainment funds) to nvest in additional areas of preparedness giving a higher probability of surviving. They have a much greater sense of independance, and a greater level of peace. And often when emergencies happen, they are not only better equipped to respond themselves, but they are in a better position to offer RFI | FF for others.
